Fire!

“Sue, wake up!” said Gail.

“Gail, it is five. It is not time to get up,” said Sue. “The sun is not up.”

“Do you see that?” said Gail. “That big light in the pines? It woke me up.”

Sue could see the light. “That is not a light,” said Sue. “That is a big fire. It is on its way to Deer Cove!”

“Mr. Weeks has his home on Deer Cove,” said Gail. “He is in bed. So he will not see the fire!”

*“That is not a light,” said Sue.
“That is a big fire!”*

“We have to go to Deer Cove and wake him,” said Sue. “Then we can run back down the road and get out of here.”

Gail and Sue got out of their bags. They ran up the road to Deer Cove. They had to save Mr. Weeks from the fire.

Deer Cove

Gail and Sue ran up the road. They could feel the heat of the fire. They had to get to Deer Cove. They had to wake Mr. Weeks.

The fire was not at Deer Cove yet. They had time to wake Mr. Weeks. Then they could run back down the road.

Gail and Sue got to the cove. They ran to the log home. “Mr. Weeks, Mr. Weeks, wake up!” they said.

Mr. Weeks came out. He saw Gail and Sue. Then he saw the fire. “That is a mean fire.

*“Mr. Weeks, Mr. Weeks, wake up!”
said Gail and Sue.*

And it will be here soon,” said Mr. Weeks.

“We have to get out of here,” said Gail.

“Look, the trees near the road are on fire,” said Mr. Weeks. “We can not take the road out of here.”

“Mr. Weeks, is your boat here?” said Gail.

“Yes, it is tied up at the dock,” said Mr. Weeks.

“We can take the boat out on the lake,” said Gail. “Then we will be safe from the fire.”
