

Preface xi
Introduction xiii

PART ONE

Theoretical Perspectives on Career Management Interventions 1

Chapter 1. . . . . . 3
The New Labor Market: Demands and Challenges for Those With Disabilities
Four Questions Related to the 21st Century Workplace 4
Implications for Career Practice 15
Conclusion 15

Chapter 2. . . . . . 17
Negative Behaviors and Obstacles in Career Management for Those With Disabilities
Expanded Causal Explanations 19
Suggested Intervention Guidelines for Managing Consumers'
Difficult Behaviors in Career Planning: Beginning Reflections 38
Conclusion 39

Chapter 3. . . . . . 41
Ethnic Minority and Gender Diversity Issues for Those With Disabilities: Implications for Career Management
Knowledge of the Dominant Minority Cultures 43
Implications of the Consumer's Worldview for Career Exploration 53
Disability Identity 55
Recommendations 57
Case Study 61
Conclusion 63

Chapter 4. . . . . . 65
The Family as a Collaborative Partner in the Career Management Process
Assumptions for Family Involvement in Career
Exploration Process 68

© copyrighted material by PRO-ED, Inc.

Benefits of Family Participation 69
 Family's Role in Career Management Process and Achievement of Career Goals 71
 Role of Career Planning Professional When Family Is Partner in Member's Career Process 77
 Case Study 84
 Conclusion 88

Chapter 5. . . . . . 89

A 21st Century Perspective on Selected Career Theories
 for Those With Disabilities

Pivotal Characteristics for Career Exploration 90
 Selected Career Theories 95
 Thematic Concepts From Selected Career Theories 106
 Case Study 108
 Conclusion 112

Chapter 6. . . . . . 113

Career Planning Strategies for the 21st Century

Selective Identification of Traditional Career Intervention Models 115
 A Proposed Integrative Career Planning Approach 124
 Significant Professional Skills for Implementing the Integrative Career Planning Process 134
 Case Study 135
 Conclusion 138

PART TWO

The Practice of Career Planning 139

Chapter 7. . . . . . 143

Career Transition Assessment: Selected Informal Approaches and Resources for Effective Career Management

Transition Career Assessment 144
 Approaches for Career Transition Assessment 150
 Self-Assessment 154
 Assistive Technology 164
 Roles of the Professional in Career Transition Assessment 166
 Case Study 167
 Conclusion 171

© Copyrighted material by PRO-ED, Inc.

Chapter 8. . . . . .	173
An Effective Consumer Interview
Interview Structure and Goals	175
Selected Techniques Used During the Interview	182
Areas to Explore During the Interview	187
Behaviors and Attitudes to Look for During the Interview, and Organizing the Interview Information	189
Special Interview Issues	193
Case Study	196
Conclusion	199
 Chapter 9. . . . . .	 201
Career Transition Assessment: Formal Strategies for Effective Career Planning
Purposes of Formal Career Assessment	204
A Philosophy of Assessment	205
Steps of the Formal Assessment Process	208
Identification of Selected Measures in Specific Assessment Areas	213
Integration of Career Assessment Results: A Suggested Approach and Illustration	231
Conclusion	237
 Chapter 10. . . . . .	 239
Additional Options for Career Assessment and Developing Timely Written Reports of Assessment Results
Situational Assessment	240
Work Samples	246
Developing an Effective Assessment Report	254
An Assessment Report	256
Case Study	258
Conclusion	262
 Chapter 11. . . . . .	 265
Obtaining Occupational Information
Identifying Consumer Needs and Professional Expectations	266
When to Use Career Information	269
Criteria for Determining Useful Career Information	270
Sources of Career Information	272
Preparing the Consumer to Acquire and Organize Career Information	283

© Copyrighted material by PRO-ED, Inc.

Case Study	284
Conclusion	287
Chapter 12 . . . . .	289
Career Decision Making and Implementing Career Decisions
Premises for Appropriate Decision Making	290
Styles and Models of Decision Making	293
Thematic Understanding of the Traditional Approach to Career Decision Making	296
Pitfalls in the Decision-Making Process	300
Myths in Decision Making	302
Selected Influences on Career Decisions	303
A Revised Decision-Making Approach for the 21st Century	304
Developing a Plan of Action for Implementing Decisions	308
Case Study	311
Conclusion	314
Chapter 13 . . . . .	315
Implementing the Career Decision: Job Interviewing and Resume Writing
Job Interviewing	316
Reasonable Accommodations	333
Presentation of Self in Writing: Resume Development	334
Conclusion	345
Chapter 14 . . . . .	347
Developing Group Programs for Delivering Career Management Services
Assumptions When Developing Career Programs for Those With Disabilities	348
Characteristics of Career Planning Programs, Including Competencies to Be Developed	351
Structure of a Career Program for Those With Disabilities	353
A Sample Career Program for Persons With Disabilities	356
Conclusion	373

© copyrighted material by PRO-ED, Inc.

APPENDIXES

Appendix A . . . . .	377
Rating My Important Personal Values
Appendix B . . . . .	379
Interest and Skill Review: My Winning Strengths
Appendix C . . . . .	381
Career Dreams
Appendix D . . . . .	383
Rating My Work/Job Preferences
Appendix E . . . . .	385
Functional Skills List
Appendix F . . . . .	387
Midpoint Program Evaluation Form
Appendix G . . . . .	389
Career Value Exploration Form
Appendix H . . . . .	391
Occupational Goals Form
Appendix I . . . . .	393
Final Program Evaluation Form
Appendix J . . . . .	395
An Integrated Traditional and Revised 21st Century Decision-Making Approach
References	397
Author Index	409
Subject Index	415
About the Author	419

© copyrighted material by PRO-ED, Inc.