

When you talk to a friend,
you are having a conversation.
You greet your friend by saying "Hi!"
and take turns talking about lots of things.

You can talk about today, tomorrow, or yesterday.

You can talk about silly and funny things,
exciting things, or just anything.

When your friend is talking,
you watch and listen without interrupting.

When it is your turn to talk,
you say some things
and then let your friend talk again.

Talking to a friend is fun!

What should you do when you are talking to a friend?

You should take turns talking.
When it is your turn, you can talk a little.
Then let your friend talk again.
You can have another turn to talk later.

Why?

Because taking turns talking is polite.

Letting your friend talk without interrupting him shows that you care about what he is saying.