

Travis looked in a mirror to draw a picture of Travis.

You need to keep that secret to just you.

Gina made Gina a sandwich for lunch.

I ordered a pizza for just me.

Torin and I made a fort for just us.

Joan hates to clean her room.

(Student's name) would like an ice-cream cone.

The cell phone that belongs to me doesn't work.

My sisters and I love to play soccer.

Dylan's dog is getting old.

Travis looked in a mirror to draw a picture of himself.

You need to keep that secret to yourself.

Gina made herself a sandwich for lunch.

I ordered a pizza for myself.

Torin and I made a fort for ourselves.

She hates to clean her room.

I would like an ice-cream cone.

My cell phone doesn't work.

We love to play soccer.

His dog is getting old.

stand

1. Please stand when the President enters the room.
2. The speaker's notes fell off of the stand.
3. We stopped at the roadside stand to buy fresh vegetables.
4. Take a stand on the issue.
5. The rule will stand as written.

scale

1. I need to weigh myself on the scale.
2. He's going to try to scale the mountain.
3. She had trouble learning the C minor scale.
4. To what scale is the blueprint drawn?
5. Please scale the fish for me.

stand

1. rise to a vertical, upright position
2. podium
3. a booth/stall where goods are sold
4. choose a position; support/oppose
5. remain valid; without change

scale

1. instrument used to measure weight
2. climb upward
3. graduated series of musical notes
4. proportion between two sets of measurements
5. scrape off the outer hard plates of the skin

How do you feel about the existence of ghosts?

How do you feel about the existence of UFOs and alien visitations?

How do you feel about people who predict the future?

You get to create a new holiday. What is it and how will you celebrate it?

Which holidays should we stop celebrating? Why?

Which holidays have become too commercial? Why?